

Product Discontinuance Notification

Date: July 13, 2009

Overview

The purpose of this notification is to communicate to our valued customers that OmniVision Technologies, Inc. (OVT) is discontinuing the products identified below. The timeline and terms and conditions associated with the product discontinuance are contained within this notification.

Description

As part of OmniVision's ongoing review of the continued viability of its product offering, we regret to announce that the products contained in this notification have been identified for discontinuance.

The reason for the discontinuance of the products identified in this letter is due to the discontinuance of a manufacturing compound imposed by the United States Environmental Protection Agency mandate.

Product(s) Affected

| OVT P/N | Replacement Device |
|----------------|---------------------------|
| OV06920-V09N   | OV06922-V09N              |
| OV06920-VL9A   | OV06922-V09N              |

Replacement Product Information

The replacement product is pin-to-pin compatible with the discontinued product, with the same functionality. The sole difference is the utilization of a new color filter, which will be manufactured using a different compound than the banned compound. The change in the color filter characteristics will affect the RGB spectrum of the product, which in turn may require a settings update to your firmware to match the overall color response on your system.

For more information on the replacement product, contact your local OmniVision Technologies, Inc. Sales Representative.
